Overview of the position

The Western Australia Criminal Law Mental Impairment Act 2023 (CLMI Act) commenced 1 September 2024.

The CLMI Act recognises the importance to safeguard the rights and needs for people managed under the Act and ensure their rehabilitation and safe reintegration through appropriate transitional support. CLMI patients have complex needs and risk and are some of the most vulnerable and high-risk individuals in the state.

The Justice Health and Wellbeing Services (JHWS) Branch of Offender Services Directorate delivers health and allied health services to individuals in prison.

JHWS services are delivered by multidisciplinary teams made up of highly specialised staff including nurses, consultant psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, aboriginal mental health workers and prison support officers.

The Occupational Therapist CLMI will work as part of the JHWS multidisciplinary team and in partnership with the CLMI Services Team (Adult Community Corrections).

JHWS care includes assessment, diagnosis, and on-going care and treatment via a case management model. This includes providing clinical risk assessments and interventions to prisoners identified as being at acute risk of suicide or self-harm or those who are vulnerable within the prison system; therapy and psychological treatments and interventions for commonly occurring conditions such as anxiety and depression; and medication administration.

All JHWS treatment within the prisons is provided on a voluntary basis only with those requiring treatment against their will being referred to an authorised mental health hospital under the provisions of the CLMI Act or the Mental Health Act 2014.

JHWS services aim to provide holistic and recovery focused care equivalent to that available in the Community.
