About the Public Transport Authority

The Public Transport Authority's (PTA) vision is to be recognised as a leader in providing world-class public transport services and solutions. Western Australia's public transport system is recognised as the best in Australia and the Perth urban rail network is considered one of the most efficient, clean, and safe networks in the world. Efficient public transport is vital for the continued growth of the Western Australian economy and with investment in expansion of the urban rail network continuing via programs such as METRONET the PTA needs the skill and commitment of a talented workforce.

With an ever-growing network comes an increase in the need for more Transit Officers to ensure a safe and efficient train journey for our passengers. Part of this recruitment drive will be to source Transit Officers for the upcoming Forrestfield-Airport Link rail line.

As a PTA employee and Transit Officer you will receive a range of benefits:

- Full uniform including boots
- Health and Wellness Program
- Excellent working conditions and amenities
- Study Assistance/Professional Development Programs
- Salary Packaging and much more!

Our Values

The PTA's Values define what is important to the PTA. Knowing our values helps you understand how we do business here and what is expected of you as an employee of the PTA. Living the values requires a genuine understanding of the values and knowing how to apply them to your own work.

Respect:	We value and respect our customers, suppliers, and each other
Recognition:	We recognise each other for achievement, initiative, and innovation
Integrity:	We are honest and ethical
Safety:	We are committed to safety and protecting your future
Sustainability:	We consider the long-term impact of everything we do – economic, social and environmental

The role of a Transit Officer

Do you know the role of a Transit Officer?

Transit Officers play a vital role in ensuring the safety and security of our passengers. Many people are unaware of what Transit Officers do and think that the role is simply to check tickets and issue fines. Transit Officers are law enforcement officers who, while on PTA property, have powers similar to that of WA Police.

Transit Officers patrol trains, stations and some are mobile in a patrol vehicle. They are equipped and trained to deal with public disorder offences on the rail network. They have the authority to demand a person of interest's name, address and date of birth and any refusal or provision of false details may result in arrest. They prepare court briefs and other associated legal paperwork to prefer charges against a person who has committed certain offences on the rail network.

Transit Officers are also often the first responders to emergency situations, they also assist emergency services and safety officers to manage the incident.

Apart from law enforcement and emergency response, Transit Officers also have a large focus on customer service requirements on a day-to-day basis.

As you can see, this role is complex and dynamic, it can often be challenging and stressful but ultimately very rewarding

In this role you will be part of a large and dynamic team working in a variety of locations across the metropolitan rail network. You may be initially located at Armadale, Joondalup, Fremantle, Mandurah, Midland, Perth or the Forrestfield Airport link line.

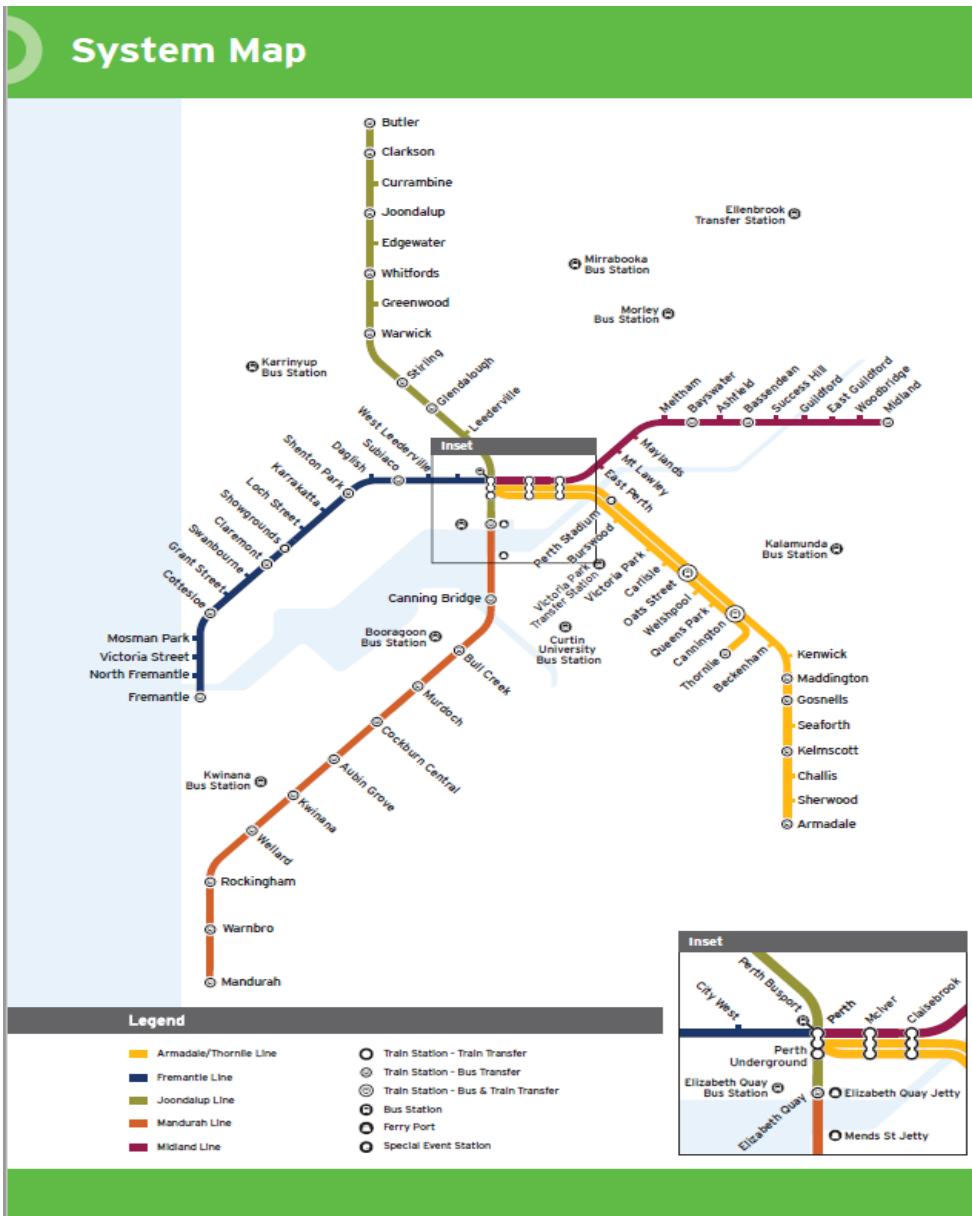

If you are seeking a rewarding position, have the physical capabilities required, can handle pressure and the challenge of resolving problems and difficult situations, this may be the job for you!

For further information on the duties, please refer to the Job Description Form (JDF).

Employment conditions

Transit Officer positions are permanent, and you will need to satisfy the Australian Permanent Residency requirements to be eligible for employment.

It is a requirement of this role that you possess a current and unrestricted Ordinary Western Australian C or C-A class driver's licence. This is an ongoing requirement for the duration of your employment in this position and, from time to time, you may be requested to produce your licence. PLEASE NOTE that a Novice licence is considered 'restricted' and therefore not eligible for appointment.

You will be required to be COVID-19 vaccinated to be eligible for employment.

You must be available to attend all stages of the recruitment process to be properly assessed against the requirements of the role (travel to and from all assessments is at the applicant's expense).

You will also undergo an integrity assessment and police check as part of the recruitment process.

Training

Transit Officers are provided with a comprehensive Transit Officer Recruit Training course (up to 15 weeks) for a nationally recognised qualification that includes:

- Security studies
- Defensive tactics
- Legal studies
- Railway safe working
- Occupational health and safety
- Customer service
- Communication
- Equity and diversity
- Cultural awareness

You must be deemed competent in all components of the course before becoming fully operational. All training and assessment requirements must be met before permanent appointment is confirmed.

Salary

During training, your salary will be $1,046.50 per week, plus appropriate shift penalties whilst undergoing on-the-job training. When fully trained, your salary will be $1,231.20 per week plus penalties. As you progress, you may earn up to $1,363.40 per week plus penalties. You are entitled to five weeks annual leave.

When you are qualified as a Transit Officer, you will be required to complete a six-month probationary period.

The Transit Officer Recruit Training is due to commence 27 September 2022, however as you are paid in arrears, your first pay-day will be 19 October 2022 and you will receive pay for the period 27 September – 8 October 2022.

Your next full pay date will be on 2 November 2022.

Work Location

As a Transit Officer, you will be allocated to one of the Perth metropolitan rail lines. Being allocated to a particular line means commencing and finishing your shifts at a station along one of the six lines previously mentioned. With the Forresterfield-Airport Link nearing completion some recruits may be later transferred to work on that line.

The Transit Officer Recruit Training course is delivered primarily from the PTA's training centre located in Guildford.

For more information on the terms and conditions of employment as a Transit Officer, please refer to the Public Transport Authority / ARTBIU (Transit Officers) Industrial Agreement 2020 which can be viewed on the WA Industrial Relations Agreement website at www.wairc.wa.gov.au.

Assessment process

There are several important steps that you must meet to become a Transit Officer. These are:

1. Lodging your application

You are required to lodge your application at www.jobs.wa.gov.au

2. Aptitude Tests

These tests are to assess your verbal and mathematic skills.

3. Physical Tests

Applicants who progress through to the physical testing will be required to undergo a 'beep test' and 'dummy drag'.

4. Interviews

Applicants who progress to this stage will be invited to attend a job interview and bring a copy of their current National Police Certificate, Integrity Check Form, Passport, or proof of residency.

5. Integrity Check and References

This may include investigations into suspensions from employment, past employment records and performance, workers compensation and pending criminal charges. Integrity and application screening may be undertaken at any stage of the recruitment process and at any stage during your employment with the PTA.

6. Psychometric assessment

This is a series of psychometric assessments aligned to the role.

7. Medical clearance (psychological and medical).

Following the psychometric assessment, a one-on-one interview with a psychologist will be undertaken to further assess suitability for the role requirements. You will also be required to attend a physical medical assessment.

8. Notification

Successful and unsuccessful applicants will be notified by email at the conclusion of each stage of the process. Those successful at the end of the process will be placed into the recruitment pool, which will remain open for a period of six months.

9. Induction and training

Successful applicants will be selected from the recruitment pool and are expected to commence the Transit Officer Recruit Training course which you must successfully complete before becoming fully operational.

10. Completion of Training

On successful completion of the required training course you will be rostered as a Transit Officer and the salary will change from an employee in training to a Transit Officer.

Aptitude Testing

The PTA uses aptitude tests to assist in identifying applicants who are suitable to become Transit Officers. The tests are designed to specifically measure skills relevant to the transport industry and relate to the duties of a Transit Officer.

The aptitude stage of the process will include the following tests:

- 1. Verbal Reasoning. This test measures the applicant's understanding of concepts represented in words, including reading simple text, comprehension, and identifying similarities and differences in ideas expressed in words/sentences. Time allowed 15 minutes.
- 2. Entry Mathematics. This test assesses your basic mathematical ability. Items cover concepts such as addition and subtraction, multiplication and division, number knowledge (relative size of different amounts), simple equations, decimals, fractions, averages, rounding up and down, percentages, area and shapes, and graphical distances in measurement. Time allowed 25 minutes.

Physical Testing

Following the Shortlisting stage, applicants will be invited to attend a session which tests their physical fitness for the role.

Physical testing for Transit Officers involves two tests:

- 1. Dummy drag. A test of your ability and physical strength to safely drag a 70kg mannequin in an emergency.
- 2. Beep test. To assess your aerobic capacity. This test requires the participant to run with an increasing pace for approximately eight minutes.

Beep test

You should wear running attire (i.e., loose fitting clothing and running shoes) as you will be required to undergo a multi-stage shuttle run assessment. This assessment requires you to run at an increasing pace between 2 markers set 20 metres apart. You will be required to increase the pace in accordance with a taped cadence.

- Male pass level: Level 7 Shuttle 1 (beep test)
- Female pass level: Level 6 Shuttle 1 (beep test)

If you have not been physically active in the past six months, it is recommended you undertake some aerobic training involving running for at least four weeks to be able to pass the beep test.

There are many ways you can prepare for the beep test:

- A good pair of running shoes is recommended so that blisters and other foot problems are avoided
- Any activity that involves running will increase your aerobic capacity. This includes team sports or running in local parks and suburbs
- If you have never done any running or intense physical activity, it is highly recommended you consult your doctor prior to commencement of an exercise program to assess your cardiovascular risk (heart attack)
- Ensure an adequate warm up and stretching period before the start of every training session.

Beep Test Example

For further information go to <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=weEe4V0Ot2Y>

Dummy drag

- The dummy drag is completed walking backwards, you must turn 180 degrees at the beginning of the drag and then begin the 15m walk.
- You must drag a 70kg mannequin for 10 metres, negotiate a corner then drag it another 5 metres either left or right. The cones on the ground will indicate your start and finish points.
- You will need to show that you are dragging the mannequin in the correct position, which is standing behind the mannequin and holding it under the arms or with an interlocked grip across the chest.
- You must not use the shoulder straps on the dummy to get the dummy into position.
- You should bend your knees to pick up and put down the mannequin for the protection of your lower back.
- You must not drop the mannequin.
- All movements must be safe and continuous. If you stop, this is an instant fail.
- You must place the mannequin on the ground safely at the completion of the test.

Participants must demonstrate a satisfactory technique in all aspects of the Victim Rescue to receive a pass rating.

Integrity Check

As part of the selection process, you are required to declare in your application that you are not under investigation for any matter and have not been suspended or terminated from employment.

Please ensure you disclose all matters you think might be on your record, including ALL convictions that have been declared as 'Spent'. This includes any driving convictions or suspension of driver's licence through the loss of demerit points.

In addition to referee checks, the PTA may also screen any criminal convictions (spent, pending or otherwise) for discipline and performance management issues along with the outcomes of previous medical assessments that may have deemed the applicant unsuitable to perform the role.

Declarations associated with the above will not automatically disqualify you from the selection process. If rejection of an applicant is considered appropriate based on the information provided in a declaration, you as the applicant will be given the opportunity to seek feedback from the panel to discuss the matter.

Integrity and application screening may be undertaken at any stage of the recruitment process and at any stage during your employment with the PTA.

Interview

If you have been invited to attend an interview, you will be asked a series of questions that relate directly to the role of a Transit Officer. This is your opportunity to demonstrate to the panel in person why you are suitable for the role. It is also the time to ask the panel any questions you have regarding the role. Please ensure you arrive on time, dress appropriately and have with you the National Police Clearance Certificate or lodgement receipt, Motor Driver's Licence, COVID -19 Certificate and proof of Australian residency for the panel to sight.

National Police Certificate and Reference Checks

As part of the screening process, ALL applicants must provide a National Police Certificate at the panel interview. The PTA accepts National Police Certificates obtained at Australia Post or online at <http://cvcheck.com/PoliceChecks.aspx?qclid=CLYltOmHkcgCFZcivQodVAAO2A> and these must be dated 3 months or less from the date of application for the position. You MUST produce this Certificate to progress to the next stage of the recruitment process. If you have applied for a Certificate but have not yet received it, please bring your receipt to the interview show to the panel.

If you do not provide a copy of either your National Police Certificate or your receipt, you may be precluded from progressing to the next stage of the process.

The panel may ask referees how well they think you meet the requirements of the job. It is recommended you select referees who know about your relevant skills and abilities and that you let your referees know about the position and skills required before nominating them in your application. The PTA may also exercise the right to contact previous and current employers. Former employees of the PTA may be subject to a reference check from previous managers/supervisors.

Reference checks may be undertaken during any stage of the recruitment process.

Psychometric Assessment

Applicants who successfully pass the interview stage will then be invited to participate in a series of online psychometric assessments which you will have one week to complete. There are 2 parts to the assessments, and you will receive an email from the Psych provider with instructions on how to access the tests. This form of testing is used to provide another source of information to assist in determining if a person is suitable for the Transit Officer role. The psychological tests and questionnaires provide information about a person's mental abilities (e.g. problem solving and language ability), and personality characteristics such as sociability and open-mindedness. The aim of the testing process is to assess abilities or characteristics which are related to successful performance of the critical work tasks.

When completing psychological tests, it is important you pay close attention to the instructions you are given and answer the questions honestly as they apply to you. There may be time limits for some of the tests so again make sure you follow the instructions carefully.

Psychologist Interview

Following the psychometric assessment, applicants will be referred for a one-on-one interview with a psychologist to further assess suitability for the Transit Officer role. The focus of this interview is to consider the applicant's psychological suitability for work as a Transit Officer by gathering further information. The results of your psychometric testing questionnaires are also considered as part of this process.

Medical assessment

All persons employed by the PTA are required to undergo a health assessment prior to commencement.

The health assessment comprises a health questionnaire and a medical examination. The health questionnaire asks about the applicant's medical history and includes several health screening questions. The examining doctor cannot judge fitness for duty from the questionnaire alone but will use the applicant's responses to guide the clinical examination. An honest completion of this questionnaire is therefore important to enable appropriate assessment – it is also in your own interest to assist in early detection and management of conditions that, if not treated, might impact on the ability to perform the work safely.

Uniform

If you are successful to a Transit Officer position you must be prepared to adhere to the PTA's uniform standards. A Transit Officer must be neatly dressed in the correct attire to maintain our expected level of professionalism and ensure the safety of our Transit Officers at all times. The PTA has ensured reasonable efforts have been made to accommodate the various religious and ceremonial requirements of an ethnically and religiously diverse workforce without degrading the safety and identification of the wearer.

Before commencing the recruit training program, you will be required to attend a fitting for your uniform. This is to assist the uniform provider to have uniforms ready for the first day of the training course. Please note that having an appointment for a uniform fitting does not automatically guarantee you placement in the Transit Officer Recruit Training course.

How do I lodge my application?

You must apply online which will take approximately 30 minutes to complete. Emailed, late or pro forma applications will not be accepted.

Click on the 'Apply Now' button which is located at the top and bottom of the Jobs WA advertisement page and remember to attach your:

- A current comprehensive resume with two work related referees; and
- A completed Integrity and Qualification Consent Form (attached to the advert on jobs.wa.gov.au) as all PTA positions are subject to ongoing integrity screening.

Failure to supply the information requested in the above steps may preclude you from being considered further for a Transit Officer position.

When you have submitted your application, you will receive an automated confirmation via email. This will state the date and time your application was received as well as a unique application reference number. The email will also specify any attachments that you submitted as part of your application (such as your resume and response to the questions).

Preparing for the selection panel interview

All applicants should consider the following tips to prepare for the interview:

- Be familiar with the duties outlined in the JDF.
- Consider the selection criteria and think of specific examples of situations where you have applied the relevant skills and abilities.
- Focus on the duties of the position and how they should be carried out, considering problems that might be encountered and how they would be resolved. It is also important to consider outcomes and results achieved.
- Be punctual and appropriately attired - neat and professional.
- Take time to answer each question and present answers clearly and concisely.
- Use the interview to ask any questions you may have in relation to the position.
- Ensure you have your National Police Certificate with you when attending the interview (or the receipt at a minimum).

General Information

As an applicant, you must have a valid email address so that you can log on to regularly check and monitor the progress of your application, as all communication will be sent to you via the email address you supplied in your application.

Applicants who are successful to the recruitment pool may be offered a place on the Transit Officer Recruit Training course. When vacancies occur, the PTA will determine the most suitable applicant from the recruitment pool for that vacancy and also consider any relevant organisational requirements at that time.

Applicants will remain in the recruitment pool for six months from the date they are advised of their successful inclusion in the pool. It is important to maintain your fitness during this time.

Applicants must be available to attend and participate in ALL stages of the recruitment process to be considered for the role. If you are not available during any part of the process, it is recommended that you 'withdraw' from the process so that you may still be eligible for the next recruitment campaign. Failure to attend an assessment without withdrawing will result in an "unsuccessful" outcome.

Please remember that inclusion into the Transit Officer recruitment pool does not guarantee appointment to a Transit Officer position.

If, after reading all the information contained in this booklet, as well as the JDF attached to the advert, you would like to discuss the role of a Transit Officer, please contact (08) 9326 2882 during office hours. Please note: this number is not to be contacted for assistance with the general application process.

As a result of the changing COVID-19 restrictions, there may be unavoidable delays in progressing stages of this recruitment process. We will keep you informed throughout this process should it be delayed, and we thank you for your patience.

For each stage of this recruitment process the PTA and third-party providers have put measures in place to ensure we follow the Government's COVID-19 requirements/restrictions.

Good luck with your application!
