RECONCILIATION ACTION PLAN

What we can offer you

We recognise that supporting our staff to achieve a positive work life balance is good for our people, good for our business and ultimately, good for our community.

We offer:

- Flexible working arrangements.
- Generous leave arrangements, including 4 weeks annual leave; long service leave after 7 years; up to 3 public service holidays per year; options to purchase leave; paid maternity leave and partner leave.
- Fully subsidised CPD training for legal practitioners and other professionals.
- Employer superannuation guarantee contributions paid to a fund of your choice.
- Generous salary packaging scheme, including the ability to package a range of “cash” and benefit items. Non-cash benefit items include superannuation, lease of motor vehicle for private use, home mortgage payments, home rental payments, school fees, health and life insurance, living expenses and meal entertainment.
- Free and confidential counselling for staff and direct family members, optical reimbursement, flu vaccinations and other inoculations.
- Sponsored professional memberships, study assistance and leave, in house training and online learning and development opportunities.
- Modern office space and access to end of trip facilities in most locations.
- Dedicated family room located in the Perth office.

Equal Employment Opportunity

We are committed to increasing the diversity of our workforce to better meet the differing needs of our clients and to improve equal opportunity for our employees. We encourage applications from Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds, young people, women and people with disabilities.

Eligibility to apply

Positions advertised with Legal Aid WA are open to all prospective applicants. However, you may be ineligible to apply if you have recently accepted a voluntary severance payment from a WA state public sector agency.

To be eligible for permanent appointment it is essential that you have permanent resident status in Australia. To be eligible for a 'fixed term contract' you must present documentary evidence of your entitlement to live and work in Australia for the period of the contract.

Offers of employment will be subject to applicants providing appropriate evidence of their right to work or Australian citizenship and evidence of vaccination against COVID-19 (or evidence of an approved exemption) no later than 14 days prior to their commencement.

Police Clearance

Offers of employment are subject to satisfactory police clearance. You will be required to provide an original and current National Police Certificate. A criminal record may not preclude an offer of employment being made. Further information will be provided should you be recommended for a position.

Working with Children Check

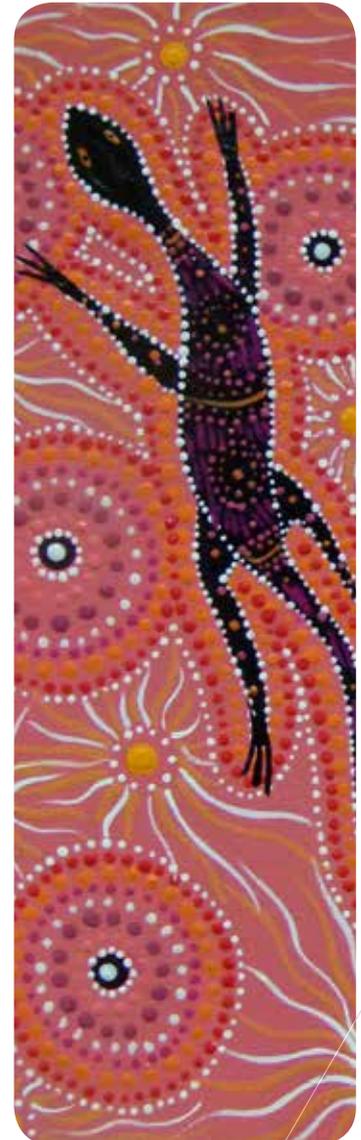

A Working with Children (WWC) Check is a mandatory requirement for certain positions at Legal Aid WA which involve child related work as defined in the WWC legislation. If you are applying for a position which involves child related work you may be required to provide evidence of your WWC Card prior to commencement of employment. The cost of the check will be reimbursed by LAWA. Further information on the WWC Check can be found at www.checkwwc.wa.gov.au.

Identification Check

Offers of employment are subject to 100 Point Identification Check.

Further information will be provided should you be recommended for a position.

Legal Aid WA reserves the right to withdraw the offer of employment where appropriate evidence is not provided.

The recruitment and selection process

Our selection processes are designed to reflect and uphold the Public Sector Standards in Human Resource Management.

The key stages of the recruitment and selection process are:

1. Applicants submit their application electronically via the www.jobs.wa.gov.au website;
2. Applicants are sent an automated acknowledgement of receipt of their application;
3. Applications received are assessed against the essential criteria and core competencies set out in the job description form;
4. Applicants who meet the selection criteria and who are considered to be the most competitive are invited to attend an interview;
5. Interviews are conducted;
6. Referee reports will normally be taken up prior to an offer being made;
7. A Selection Report is prepared;
8. Applicants are notified by email of the outcome of the selection process and of their right of appeal;
9. The successful applicant is formally offered the position after the appeal period has closed.

Additional job related information

If you would like to find out more about an advertised vacancy or working at Legal Aid WA please contact the person named in the job advertisement.

Preparing your application

Applications must be made electronically through the WA Government Jobs website (www.jobs.wa.gov.au), by clicking on the 'Apply for Job' button on the advert.

Your application should include (unless otherwise stated on the advert):

- Fully completed online application form;
- A resume of no more than 5 pages;
- A letter stating how you meet the selection criteria highlighted in the attached Job Description (unless otherwise stated in the advert);
- Photocopies of any relevant qualifications.

Addressing the Selection Criteria

The Selection Criteria in the Job Description is set out in three parts:

- Essential (role specific requirements)
- Essential required core competencies
- Qualifications

Essential role specific requirements:

These set out the technical knowledge, skills and attitudes required to successfully fill the position.

It is advisable to outline how you meet each of the highlighted criteria under separate headings. For example, if you are addressing a criteria around dealing with distressed clients you should provide a good example of a situation when you have dealt with a distressed client, detailing the situation, how you responded (action you took and the skills you used), what the outcome was and anything you might do differently next time (if applicable).

Essential required core competencies:

We have identified four core competencies essential for all jobs at Legal Aid WA. These constitute characteristics that we most value in our staff, in order to effectively model the principles and values of Legal Aid WA and maximise effective performance.

The Core Competencies Matrix (attached) sets out examples of how staff can best meet the required core competencies at different levels. The matrix is designed as a stepladder for continuous improvement. For example, if you fill a role at levels 6-9, you should also be able to demonstrate that you meet the behaviours set out in levels 1-2 and 3-5.

Qualifications:

It is important that you set out clearly in your application a summary of your qualifications and submit a copy of relevant qualifications with your application.

Unless otherwise stated in the advert, your written application should only address the selection criteria highlighted in bold in the Job Description. A concise approach to addressing the criteria is best, ensuring your response does not exceed 2 pages.

These responses, together with your resume will be used as the basis for shortlisting. All of the selection criteria will then be assessed at interview or through the use of alternative assessment or selection methods.

It is important to read the instructions in the advert prior to preparing your application.

Referees

It is important that you seek his or her approval prior to nominating someone as a referee. Referees should have a working knowledge of your relevant skills and abilities. At least one referee should be your current manager. Details of two referees should be provided as part of your application. Since referees may be contacted at any stage of the selection process, it is important to tell us if you would like referee contact to be restricted to a certain stage of the process.

Health History

Full and accurate disclosure in your application is required of any illness or condition, which may be likely to affect your work performance or ability to undertake any of the duties associated with this role. Legal Aid WA may require you to undergo a medical and/or psychological examination at Legal Aid WA's expense.

All people employed by Legal Aid WA are insured under the Workers' Compensation and Injury Management Act (WA) 1981. Section 79 of the Workers' Compensation and Injury Management Act (WA) 1981 gives the Workers' Compensation Board discretion to refuse to award compensation, which would otherwise be payable, where it is proved that the worker has, at the time of seeking or entering employment, wilfully and falsely represented himself/herself as not having previously suffered from the disability for which a subsequent claim for compensation is made. Accordingly, details of any workers' compensation or insurance injury claims previously made must be provided.

Submitting your Application

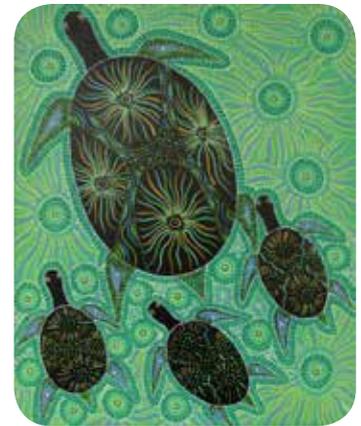

Proof read your application thoroughly or better still, have someone else check it thoroughly for errors or omissions.

All applications must be made electronically through the WA Government Jobs website (www.jobs.wa.gov.au), by clicking on the 'Apply for Job' button in the advert. It is important to allow enough time before the closing date and time to complete the online application form and upload your application documents.

If you experience difficulties with your online application or are unable to access the internet, please contact the HR Department on (08) 9261 6496 as soon as practically possible.

LATE APPLICATIONS WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED. It is your responsibility to ensure your application is complete and received by the closing date nominated in the advert.

All applications are acknowledged by automated email upon receipt. It is recommended that you contact the HR Department on (08) 9261 6496 at your earliest opportunity if you do not receive an acknowledgement.

Preparing for Interview

We are committed to improving employment opportunities for all. If you require any assistance when attending for interview or have any special needs please contact the Recruitment Officer in advance.

All interview questions will be job related and will relate directly to the Selection Criteria. The same questions will be asked of every applicant. To assist in your preparation for interview consider the following:

- Read the advert and Job Description thoroughly and become fully aware of the Selection Criteria;
- Think about your strengths, areas for development, skills, goals, preferences, personal qualities, etc. and be prepared to talk about them. The more you know about yourself, the more confident you are likely to appear at the interview;
- Examine the Selection Criteria and think of examples of past situations where you have applied the relevant skills and abilities;
- Read the Core Competencies/Characteristics Matrix (attached) and consider how you meet the requirements at the appropriate level;
- Focus on the duties of the position and how you would carry them out, considering problems you might encounter and how you would resolve them;
- If you have any documentation which will provide an example of your skills and abilities, you may present it at interview;
- Think about any questions you might like to ask the selection panel.

The Interview

- Dress appropriately for the position you have applied for.
- Be prompt (if not early) for your interview.
- Don't assume that the panel members know about your suitability for the job.
- The panel will usually consist of 2-3 members.
- Take time to answer each question. Present answers clearly and concisely. Where possible, relate your answers directly to past experiences.
- When the opportunity is presented, feel free to ask any questions you may have about the position. If you don't have any questions, don't be afraid to say so.
- Take a copy of your job application to the interview.

Feedback

When you have been advised of the outcome of your application, you are encouraged to seek feedback on your application from the selection panel.

Feedback is often useful in assisting you with the preparation of future applications and for improving performance at future interviews. You are entitled to receive feedback on your application within the four day breach claim lodgement period.

Public Sector Standard on Employment

Legal Aid Western Australia is committed to meeting the Public Sector Standard on Employment.

The Standard:

The Employment Standard applies when filling a vacancy by way of recruitment, selection, appointment, secondment, transfer and temporary deployment (acting) in the Western Australian public sector. The Employment Standard requires four principles to be complied with when filling a vacancy:

Merit Principle

The Western Australian Public Sector makes employment decisions based on merit. Merit usually involves the establishment of a competitive field. In applying the merit principle a proper assessment must take into account:

- The extent to which the person has the skills, knowledge and abilities relevant to the work related requirements and outcomes sought by the public sector body;
- If relevant, the way in which the person carried out any previous employment or occupational duties.

Equality Principle

Employment decisions are to be impartial and free from bias, nepotism and patronage.

For secondments the employee consents.

For transfer employment conditions are comparable.

Interest Principle (applies to secondments, transfers and acting)

Decisions about an employee's secondment, transfer or acting take account of the employee's interests and the work related requirements of the relevant public sector body.

Transparency Principle

Decisions are to be transparent and capable of review.

If you feel this Standard has been breached you will have the opportunity to call for a review of the process when you are notified of the outcome of the selection process. You will have four days from receipt of notification to lodge a complaint about the recruitment process. Further information can be obtained on the PSC website www.psc.wa.gov.au.
